CHAPTER #04: THE PLANET OF JOY

Leaving the Planet of Sadness behind, Wangari, Mulu, and Stella watched the yellow and orange sun peeking over the horizon and were relieved to see the mist and rain left behind. The light and warmth of the sun filled their hearts with hope.

Soon, they arrived at Planet Joy, a place always shining and closest to the sun. On this planet, the days were long and perfect for playing and having fun, while the nights were short and warm, like summer.

Stepping out of their spaceship, they were greeted by a playful, bouncing dog with a magical tail that made anyone who touched it laugh and tickle. The dog led them through a beautiful field filled with flowers that changed colours with the sunlight.

Mulu, fascinated by the dog's magic tail, couldn't stop laughing and tickling Wangari every chance he got. He felt like an unstoppable force was growing inside him like a giant star, and he just wanted to spread his delight and joy to the whole world, starting with his little sister.

At first, Wangari laughed too, but after a while, she started to feel uncomfortable.

-Mulu, stop it! -Exclaimed Wangari, a little annoyed -I can't take it anymore, my stomach hurts from laughing that hard.

-I'm sorry, Wangari, everything on this planet is so funny that I can't help it, -Mulu replied, unsuccessfully trying to contain his laughter.

With a kind smile, Stella intervened: -Remember that Joy also requires to respect the limits of others. It is wonderful to laugh and enjoy, but we must ensure that we all feel at ease.

They continued walking through the Planet of Joy, amazed by all the wonders that surrounded them. Stella, the astronaut who accompanied them on her adventure, couldn't help but smile when she saw so much happiness on their little faces.

Stella, I've never seen such a wonderful place! -Wangari said enthusiastically- It's incredible how everything here makes us feel happy and full of joy!

Yes, and the flowers that change colours and the animals are so funny... It's like we're daydreaming. I don't want this dream to end evvver! -Mulu shouted while he turned in circles of so much euphoria.

-Joy is not only on this planet, children. She also lives in our hearts, and we can take her with us wherever we go. -Said Stella, looking up at the stars. In the background, a colossal supernova filled the sky with its light. The three of them experienced great relaxation contemplating her. Its beauty was almost impossible to describe.

The most important thing is for us to trust ourselves and our abilities to find happiness in any situation.

Wangari and Mulu looked at each other, excited by Stella's wisdom. -So, if we trust ourselves and our friends, we can always be happy, even if we are not on Planet Joy?

-Wangari asked the Astronaut. Stella nodded.

-Exactly, Wangari. Confidence in ourselves and in others allows us to face any challenge with optimism and hope. That amusement and Joy that we feel here can also be taken with us on our adventures and even in our daily lives.

Mulu: I promise always to trust myself, to believe in you Wangari, and you my beloved Stella! Together, we will bring Joy to all the places we visit.

And so, Wangari, Mulu, and Stella continued their adventures as they explored the universe together, making each new place their own paradise. Always reflecting on the importance of empathy and mutual respect.
